“Compassion is not a sloppy sentimental feeling for people who are underprivileged or sick... it is an absolutely practical belief that regardless of a person’s background, ability or ability to pay, he should be provided with the best that society has to offer.”

(Neil Kinnock, b.1942, Welsh Labour politician, from his maiden speech in 1970.)
